Making Scotland a Healthier Place

We would like to welcome you to Dunblane, and to this year's conference "Strong Voices: Pragmatic Public Health".

Earlier in 2016 the much awaited "2015 Review of Public Health in Scotland: Strengthening the Function and Re-focusing Action for a Healthier Scotland" was published and by now the public health community will have spent a significant amount of time engaged in the Shared Services – Public Health dialogue and reflecting on some clear Review themes that have emerged:

- the need for greater visibility and a clearer identity for the public health function;
- strengthened leadership;
- effective response to large-scale challenges through coordinated national and local perspectives;
- effective partnership working;
- focus on identified priorities; the changing nature of the workforce;
- strengthened multi-disciplinary public health.

The conference aims to bring together the ideas that have emerged to create a strong current of opinion that mobilises and invigorates the individual and collective efforts and action to improve the health of the public. We live and die through the stories we tell and "do better; improve; or strengthen" must not let perfection be the enemy of pragmatism.

A8 Community Session

THRIVE is a partnership between Stirling Council Adult Learning, Family Workers and NHSFV Keep-well programme. The THRIVE project aims to support parents to develop skills and confidence within a women's centred programme. Delivered through a 16 week programme the project focuses on health improvement and personal development. It provides skilled based workshops to increase confidence, knowledge and awareness of coping with day to day stresses. Participants explore attitudes and the vital importance of skills for exploring pathways and opportunities within the wider community to further education, volunteering or employment.

The workshop will provide an overview of:

- How THRIVE developed in the community
- What it's all about
- Aims of the programme
- Collaborative partnership approach
- Participant's voices
- Way forward

Lunch time drop in session: Scottish Institute for Enterprise Thursday 27th October, 13:30 - 14:30, Wallace Lounge

Designs on the Future of Community Wellbeing

Like the rest of the UK, Scotland devotes a lot of scarce and expensive resources to the health prevention and healthcare of its population. However, often the results remain the same, unchanged or rising cases of illness, lack of access to preventative programmes and no change in behaviours or mindset. In some instances, our urban and rural infrastructures can contribute to this lack of change.

This is your chance to kick-start new dialogue between students, universities, local communities and the policy makers; to help your local community understand what it needs or wants and to usher in a new era of effective community wellbeing initiatives.

The aim of this unique event is to begin a process of idea generation that could lead to a whole new community healthcare landscape in Scotland. Expect to focus on issues like:

- Building a sense of community
- Equal access to opportunities and resources
- Reinventing how people interact with healthcare
- Community health and food initiatives across all ages

Using design thinking and future scenario building methodologies, you will work to identify key action domains and what needs to change. The next step will be to identify some key building blocks or ideas that have the potential to bring this change about. This will mean looking beyond current problems and solutions to find the best future opportunities for communities. Acting in the present to enable communities to be architects of their own wellbeing.

The outcomes from this workshop will be collated and disseminated to all interested stakeholders.

General Information

Remote access

Remote access to the event is available. The main sessions and parallel sessions A3, B1, C3 and D5 will all be live streamed. If you wish to join the event remotely please visit the webcast tab on the website www.fphscotconf.co.uk for joining instructions.

Sustainable Events

The Faculty of Public Health Annual Scottish Conference is committed to running a sustainable event and has put in place the following environmental policies and procedures.

Recycled Paper

All event documentation is printed on recycled paper.

Recycling

All leftover delegate materials will be recycled after the conference.

Delegate Bags

No delegate bags or folders will be provided this year. Delegates are advised to bring their own if they wish.

Poster Competition Sponsored by ScotPHN

A poster competition for the best posters will take place on Thursday 27th and on Friday 28th October. Separate prizes will be awarded for posters each day. There are two categories in which all delegates have the opportunity to vote. Poster voting forms are available in the Conference Foyer.

Category 1: Delegates are asked to vote for a poster taking into account its visual impact, clarity of content and the contribution to public health.

Category 2: In recognition of the ScotPHN's ethos of joint working across NHS Board areas and organisations involved in driving forward health improvement and services, delegates are asked to vote for a poster which describes a piece of work that successfully involved several organisations.

Acknowledgements

The conference organising committee appreciate the contributions from the Faculty of Public Health, NHS Health Scotland, NHS Ayrshire & Arran, NHS Dumfries & Galloway, NHS Forth Valley, NHS Greater Glasgow & Clyde, NHS Lanarkshire, ScotPHN and The University of Glasgow.

NHS Ayrshire and Arran serves a population of 374,000. The NHS Board works closely with Community Planning Partners in North, East and South Ayrshire. Integration is well advanced and North, East and South Health and Social Care Partnerships were established in April 2015. Changing demographics, deprivation and inequalities in health are key challenges.

Around 300,000 people live in the NHS Forth Valley area. Forth Valley lies within central Scotland and stretches from Killin and Tyndrum in the North to Strathblane and Bo'ness in the South, covering approximately 1,000 square miles. The boundaries of NHS Forth Valley are co-terminus with the three Local Authorities; Clackmannanshire Stirling and Falkirk.

NHS Lanarkshire extends from Kilsyth in the north to Douglas in the south and serves a population of 654,000. The Board area covers the North and South Lanarkshire Council areas. NHS Lanarkshire works closely with both councils and other partnership agencies on improving and protecting health, and developing health care. In Lanarkshire two Integration Joint Boards (IJBs) have been developed for the two councils areas, and strategic plans are in place for North and South Health and Social Care Partnerships.

University of Glasgow
Founded in 1451, the University of Glasgow is the fourth oldest university in the English-speaking world. Today we are a broad-based, research intensive institution with a global reach.

NHS Dumfries and Galloway serves a population of 148,000. The NHS Board and Council are coterminous with four districts of Annandale & Eskdale, Nithsdale, Stewartry and Wigtownshire. Issues associated with rurality and an ageing demographic profile are the key challenges.

NHS Greater Glasgow and Clyde covers a diverse geographical area and serves a population of over 1.1 million. Of the six local authority areas that comprise NHSGGC, Glasgow City accounts for 52.4% of the total population, Renfrewshire 15.3%, East Dunbartonshire 9.3%, East Renfrewshire 8%, West Dunbartonshire 7.9% and Inverclyde 7.1%.

NHS Health Scotland is a national Health Board working with public, private and third sector organisations to reduce health inequalities and improve health. Our 2012–17 corporate strategy A Fairer Healthier Scotland sets out our vision of a Scotland in which all of our people and communities have a fairer share of the opportunities, resources and confidence to live longer, healthier lives. To achieve our mission to reduce health inequalities and improve health we work with stakeholders across all sectors to influence policy and practice, informed by evidence, and promote action across public services to deliver greater equality and improved health for all in Scotland.

Since it was created over ten years ago, the Scottish Public Health Network (ScotPHN) has added value to the work of Public Health Directorates and agencies across Scotland through delivering national projects and programmes of work, by leading and supporting collaborative networks, and providing the necessary co-ordination for national public health leadership groups, especially that of the Scottish Directors of Public Health and the Scottish Health Promotion Managers. Working across all three domains of the specialist public health function, ScotPHN also provides an opportunity to innovate and sustain new public health practice in areas such as climate change and sustainability, the mitigating financial inequalities, and the health economics of health system change.
